The Time at Hand When Should be Returned.

RATE OF DROP POSTAGE TALKED OF

Washington, January 31.—[Special,]—The house committee on judiciary were in session all this morning, considering the senate direct tax bill, which provides that the secretary of the treasury credit and pay to the several states and territories, and the District of Columbia, all money collected under the direct tax levied by an act of congress approved in 1861; that all moneys due be remitted and that moneys appropriated to reimburse them be paid to the governors of the several states, or when collected from individuals to be paid to them. them. While it has not yet been acted upon, it is known that a majority of the committee favor the bill. Under the assessment, Beau-fort town and district, in South Carolina, was sold out to pay $9,000 taxes. A part of it was afterwards redeemed, but about sixty thousand acres of land, together with the town of Beanfort, was not redeemed, and the land was sold out at a profit of between one and two hundred thousand dollars, which was retained by the government and placed in the treasury. The people who lost their property treasury. The people who lost their property are now asking compensation for the same. If this bill should pass Georgia will get as her pro rata share $117,302, together with the Trezevant claim, amounting to $35,000 more, while South Carolina will get $273,336, Tennessee $392,004, and Alabama $18,285. Kentucky will get the largest amount of any southern state, her share being $713,695, while New York outstrips all with $2,603,913. If the bill passes the southern states will get $3,665,370, while the north will get $13,664,315. As the northern members of the judiciary the northern members of the judiciary solicitious of having this money returned, some of the southern members think the time has arrived and will offer an amendment to

The bills are private ones and embrace Mexican claims, Indian war claims, revolutionary claims, claims of 1812 and army and navy claims.

There seems to be a general feeling among the members of the house that the rate of postage on drop letters will be reduced to one

The postoffice committee today reported favorably on Colonel Blount's bill that no books, bound or unbound, be carried through the mails as second diass matter.

Speaker and Mrs. Carlisle are expected to return to Washington tomorrow morning.

Representative Perry, of South Carolina, succeeded today in getting through the house his bill to appropriate $100,000 for the erection of a public building at Greenville, S. C. Upon Their Duties.

Washington, January 31.—Among the petitions and memorials presented in the senate were the following:

Against the repeal of internal revenue taxes on tobacco and cigars, (from the cigar makers' union in St. Louis.)

For a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture, importation, exportation, transportation, and sale of liquors in the United States, (from the yearly meeting of the Society of Friends in Baltimore.)

Mr. Riddleberger offered a resolution that the treaty between this government and that of Great Britain, now before the senate in executive session, and asked for its immediate consideration.

Mr. Edmunds, objected on the ground that the resolution was one to be considered in executive session.

Mr. Riddleberger said he had another resolution to offer on the same subject, which he knew had to go over under the rule. It was that rule 37 be amended so as to allow the treaty now pending between the United States and Great Britain to be considered in open senate. Both resolutions were laid over under the rule.

Mr. Mitchell offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the committee on commerce to consider the advisability of inserting a provision in the river and harbor bill requiring all work to be done by contract.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Plumb, instructing the postoffice committee to make a thorough inquiry into the cause of inefficient mail service, especially in the west and south, was taken up for consideration. After debate upon it, which was purely political, the resolution went over until tomorrow without action; and the Blair bill was laid aside informally to permit motions to be made to take bills and resolutions from the calendar and pass them. The following were so taken up and passed:

To change the limit of appropriation for public building at Jacksonville, Fla., to $275,000.

The joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution (known as Mr. Hoar's amendment.) It provides that the term of office of president and of the fiftieth congress shall continue until the thirtieth day of April, 1889, at noon; that senators whose existing term would otherwise expire on the 4th of March, 1889, shall continue in office until the 30th of April, at noon, shall thereafter be substituted for the 4th of March as the commencement and termination of the official term of the president, vice-president, senators and representatives in congress; that the 12th article of the amendment to the constitution shall be amended by striking out the words "fourth day of March," and substituting the words "thir tieth day of April, at noon."

Mr. Call offered a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to report legislation to prevent United States courts in managing railroats and said that he would address the senate at the subject tomorrow.

in Tennessee, and quoting from a letter written to him by Colonel Colyar, of Nashville.

Mr. Bate replied briefly to these observations. Mr. Colyar, he said, was a very estimable and able gentleman; but he was "somewhat of a crank on the Blair bill." In the last canvass in Tennessee there was scarcely, a republican elected to the legislature who advocated that measure, and it was in a worse condition now in that stafe than it had previously been.

At 4:15 the senate proceeded to executive business, and at 4:35 p. m. adjourned.

THE DAY IN THE HOUSE. The Printing House Inquiry—Appropriation for Public Buildings.

A Decision by the Secretary of the Interior—Repairs of the Iroquois.

Washington, January 31.—Secretary Vilas to-day promulgated an opinion, signed by Secretary Lamar January 5, 1888, upon application of John H. Caldwell, agent for the state of Alabama, to select as school idemnity, certain lands in section 28 towards in 17 cation of John H. Caldwell, agent for the state of Alabama, to select as school idemnity certain lands in section 28, township 17 range one west in lieu of an aggregate deficiency of the same quantity of land in section 16, etc, originally granted to the state of Alabama. The case came before the secretary on on appeal of the state from the decision of the commissioner of the general land office, of August 22, 1887. rejecting the application upon the ground that, though, the valid tract in question is not subject to selection; that it was reported as coal land prior to March 3, 1883; that the act of congess passed on that date provides that all lands heretofore reported to the general land office as containing coal and iron should be first offered at public sale and that the effect of this provision upon said land was to withdraw it from disposal until so offered. In support of this decision, the commissioner cited a certain decision involving questions arising under the laws of California. The secretary reviews at length the case cited and holds they applied only to California and to its mineral conditions, and are not conclusive as against the rights of the state of Alabama; that in the organic act admitting Alabama into the union as a state congress guaranteed to her every 16th section of land in each township for school purposes and when, for any reason they are lost to the state other lands may be taken every 16th section of land in each township for school purposes and when, for any reason they are lost to the state other lands may be taken in lieu thereof and that there was restriction as to mineral lands in that state. The sccre-tary decides that the agent of the state be per-mitted make the selections specified, but expresses no opinion as to right of the state to select in lieu lands for the 36 sections which may be lost.

The secretary of the ravy recently ordered a survey to be made of the United States steamer Iroquois, at San Francisco, to determine the character and extent of repairs required to put her in good serviceable condition. The result of the survey has not yet been received, but a telegram has been received from the commandant of Mare island navy yard, saying that the vessel can be put in good repair by the expenditure of $22,500 on her hall and $6,500 on her machinery, and that she can be fitted up for temporary service at a much less expense. Information from another source, however, is to the effect that the vessel cannot be put in condition for a three years cruise at a cost within the 20 per cent limit, and that it will require all the money that can be legally expended on her within the limit to fit her up for eighteen months service at most. The secretary has the matter under consideration.

Large Buildings Used as Shoe Manufact

RICHMOND, January 31.—Soon after five o'clock this morning the buildings of the Vir-ginia penitentiary, leased by the Davis Shoe company, of Boston, and operated as a shoc factor, was discovered on fire. The flames spread rapidly, and, despite the efforts of the fire department, the buildings occupied by the shoc company were totally destroyed, together with all valuable machinery and stock. The buildings burned were three story bricks and covered an area of about seven hundred feet in length, and styre in width. Loss to the in length, and sixty in width. Loss to the Shoe company is estimated at from $150,000 to $175,000. The amount of insurance is not yet ascertained. Soon after the fire broke out the bells of the city sounded a military call, and in a few minutes about two hundred in a few minutes about two hundred soldiers were on the ground to guard against any emeute of the prisoners, but everything was entirely quiet, and after the walls of the burned building had fallen in and fears of a further spread of the fire was over, the military were ordered back. The buildings were state property, and the loss caused by their destruction will amount to $25,000. The shoe company worked between three and four hundred convicts. Insurance on the Davis company mechinery, stock and fixtures foots up $136,508, divided among about seventy-five companies—home and foreign. The buildings, which were owned by the state, were not insured and are a total loss. The origin of the fire as yet remains a mystery. There had been no fire in the building since work ceased yesterday evening. All the convicts, about 700 in number, remained quiet in their cells, when the fire first broke out and for some time after, but when many of the cells began to fill with smoke the occupants clamored to be let out. This was soon done and the prisoners were turned into the galleries facing the inner court, where they remained under a strong military and civic guard until the fire was gotten under control, after which they were returned to their cells.

Sarah's Alimony Cut Down.

San Francisco, January 31.—The supreme court today filed its decision in the celebrated Sharon divorce case, in which the lower court granted to Sarah Althea Sharon a divorce from the late United States Senator William Sharon and allowed alimony and a large amount of money as counsel fees. The supreme court affirms the decision of the lower court, but reverses the order relating to counsel fees. The amount of counsel fees allowed was $55,000, and the amount of alimony was $7,500 and an annual allowance of $2,500. The supreme court fixes the alimony at $1,500 and an annual allowance of $500. The trouble is really of two year standing, disastifaction with the pastor having arisen about two years ago on account of what some members considered officious in tengistrance in matters of a private character, which caused the withdrawal of one family from the church. Several other members of the congregation expensed their disapproval of Dr. Edmundson's course, the relation between pastor and congregation became more and more strained. In consequence of this dissatisfaction Rev. J. M. Carter, residing elder, was invited here to investigate the charges and against the pastor. The presiding elder made inquiries concerning the maters which had been reported to him, and it is said learned of several more task Mr. Carter occupied the publish and Mr. Edmondson did not respond, but at the conclusion of the cermon he went into the publish and Mr. Edmondson occupied a seat in the administration of the Lord's support. He denied the particular wording of the charges read by Mr. Edmondson, but reaffirmed all of the statements as to the personal difficulties referred to. During Mr. Carter's talk, Mr. Edmondson frequently interrupted the speaker. Mr. Edmondson again rose to speak when Mr. Carter stopped, but the congregation arose and left the church without the benediction.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., January 31.—Colonel W. L. Mahon, the emissary who Governor Wilson sent to Logan county a week ago to inquire into and report upon the now famous Hatfield-McCoy vendetta made his report to Governor Wilson today and it is as follows:

"I visited all the Hatfields and found them to be good law-abiding citizens.lwho have the respect and confidence of every one in the neighborhood. While many depredations have been committed and the whole surrounding country has been in a state of excitement and tumult, bordering on a genuine young war, peace has again been restored and the belligerent parties on to the sides have disbanded and no further trouble is anticipated. The strangest part of the whole affair is the fact that the Hatfields and McCoys are related.

The recent outbreak seems to have been caused by parties in Pike county, Ky., resurrecting old indictments against the Hatfields, which were found against them five years ago. The Pike county parties went to Frankfort, Ky., and had rewards offered for the Hatfields and came to West Virginia under the guise of officers of the law, when in reality they had no requisition, and arrested (or rather kidnapped) Thomas Chambers, Andrew Varney, Shelkirk McCurry, D. had no requisition, and arrested (or rather kidnapped) Thomas Chambers, Andrew Varney, Shelkirk McCurry, D. D. McCoy, Moses Christian, and Pliant Mahon, D. D. Mahon and Valentine Hattield over to Kentucky and put them in jail, where they are still confined. This party, headed by Frank Phillips, fired on and killed old man Vance, without as much as calling on him to surrender, and they are the same rarties who came ever into this state and fired upon Constable Thompson and posse, at which time Dolphy and another man were killed. Citizens of Logan county state that had any parties, other than those sent, been called upon to make the arrest, no blood would have been shed, but the McCoys, who came with Phillips to make the arrest, had sworn to kill the Hattields, and would have done so after they were disarmed. Peace has been temporarily dec'ared, but it is feared by the law shiding citizens of the two counties that hostilities will be renewed before a great while. The trouble began during the war. The Hattields were in the confederate army and the McCoys in the union army.

RESTRICTED SUFFRAGE.

The Question of Woman's Rights in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis, January 31.—The women of Wisconsin were defeated in the supreme court today, the court holding in an elaborate opinion that the legislature of 1885 did not for a moment contemplate extending the same suffrage to females which males enjoy, but, on the other hand, meant to restrict female voting to school matters only, as specified by the law. The case was Mrs. Olympia Brown Willis, of Racine, against A. L. Phillips and other inspectors of election of the second ward of the city of Racine, who at the last spring election refused to receive the vote of Mrs. Willis for mayor, city clerk, comptroller, aldermen and mayor, city clerk, comptroller, aldermen and mayor, city clerk, comptroller, aldermen and supervisors, or to permit her to swear it in. Mrs. Willis claimed such right under the laws of 1885, and immediately sued the inspectors for $5,000 damages. She won the suit in the circuit court for Racine county, when the inspectors appealed to the supreme court, which today reversed the decision of the lower court, as above noted.

Attorney-General Davidson, while at Washington, made an attempt last week to secure the exchange of $190,000 in North Carolina construction bonds held by the interior department on account of the Indian fund, for new state bonds. Mr. Davidson says that the matter of exchange will require special legislation by congress. The state has a great desire to make the exchange, and thus call in the last of these old bonds.

St. Louis, January 31.—Joseph Thompson, a negro condemned to be hanged, broke out of the national prison at Talhaquah Wednessky, and took refuge with a Creik Indian by the name of Connosty, also an escapel convict under penalty of death. When the sheriff on Friday night demanded the men to come out they replied with a volley from Winehesters, which instantly killed Jack Condy. A battle ensued, and a deputy named Hair was killed, and a woman and boy in the hut were fatally shot and one of the refugees was shot. This makes seven innocent lives sacrificed by the condemned outlaws who are still at large.

Palmetro, Ga., January 31.—[Special.]—Palmetto is having trouble with thieves to a considerable degree. Only a week or two ago the store of Hutcheson & Mosely was burglarized, and on Sunday night last some parties broke open a freight car that was standing on the side track here, but were frightened away by some one passing along before they got anything. Last night the storehouse of Mayor W. W. Floyd was broken open and entered and his stock was ransacked almost from one end to the other. A great many things were missing, such as hats, shoes, clothing and many others. The burglars must have gotten a fright, as they ran out and left one sack in the house that they had filled with goods. 'Tis likely this crowd will be caught. ALFALFA IN SOUTHWEST GEORGIA. The Albany News Takes Steps to Encourage Its Cultivation.

From the Albany, Ga., News.

The News and Advertiser believes that the The News and Advertiser believes that the alfalfa can be successfully grown in southwest Georgia. If it can be, it can soon be made to reclaim every acre of waste land in this section. It has been the means of doubling the value of lands in Texas and California within the last few years, and if we can establish the fact that it can be successfully grown in southwest Georgia, the future of this God-favored region with its salubrious climate and naturally fertile soil will be assured.

Our belief in the adaptability of this soil and Our belief in the adaptability of this soil and climate to the growth of alfalfa is not a mere crankish notion, nor an idea that has been formed without reason or investigation upon our part. A study of the nature of the plant and a comparison of the soil and climate of those sections of country where it is being successfully grown with the soil and climate of southwest Georgia has satisfied us that it can be made to do for this section what it is doing for Texas and California, and what the famous blue grass has done for what is known as the "Blue Grass Region" of Kentucky. We have been strengthened in Kentucky. We have been strengthened i

Kentucky. We have been strengthened in our opinion, too, by experiments that have been made, on a small scale, and by seeing the plant growing luxuriantly right here in the city of Albany in the month of January.

Now to the proposition suggested in the heading of this article:

In order to encourage some of the farmers of southwest Georgia to experiment with alfalfa, the News and Advertiser hereby offers a cash premium of $25 for the hest yield of alfalfa, the News and Advertiser hereby offers a cash premium of $25 for the best yield of alfalfa hay grown on one acre during the year 1888. This proposition is not confined to Dougherty county, but is open to any farmer iu southwest Georgia.

This premium will more than pay the expense of solding and harvesting an acre of the alfalfa, and we hope that a sufficient number of our farmers will make the experiment to give the plant a fair test. Seed ordered now can be had in time for the spring planting.

Attorney Bartlett opened the argument by contending for these fees. His speech was listened to with profound interest but his effort could not prove that his position was in agreement to the justice of the facts. This argument was to have been replied to by Major A. O. Bacon, but at this moment Judge Gustin stated that any further arguments in this matter were useless, as he considered the extra fees of $3,000, as charged by the petitioning attorneys, were not made upon any ground whereby they had the right to do so, as no funds had been brought into court in the case, and that they could not attach any liens for fees, because this matter of fees had been agreed upon between attorney and creditor. DROWNED IN THE WHIRLPOOL. Frank Annett, a Colored Boatman, Meets With a Horrible Death.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 31.—[Special.]—Frank Annett, a colored boatman, was drowned in the Savannah river at the locks at 11 o'clock this morning. Four men left the city yesterday morning on the Petersburg flat to go up the river for a load of wood. At the fated hour the boat was guided into the race way and three of the men remained on the boat. Annett, seeing danger imminent, leaped for a rock, which he missed, and was drowned in a whirlpool. The other men were saved. Annett was taken out of the whirlpool with grappling hooks, and brought to the city. Coroner Picquet held an inquest this afternoon. The verdict was accidental drowning.

A Southwest Georgia Pear Farm Described—The LeConte and Kieffer Varieties.

Editors Constitution: Thinking that perhaps your readers, or at least that portion interested in horticulture, would like to know something of our doings in the way of catering to the demands of lovers of good fruit, I enclose a tabulated statement of the number of growers, with the number of trees of all ages, of the famous LeConte and Kieffer pears, you will see that we have 12,500 of those trees planted within a radius of four miles of our town, and, as they begin to bear very young—LeContes at five years and Kieffers at four years—you will see that we have already in our vicinity near 5,000 LeContes bearing and about 1,000 Kieffers. You will also see from the statement that a goodly number of the trees included are one and two years old, which shows that our people have faith in them, notwithstanding the doubting Thomases are trying to throw cold water on the enterprise tantalizing us with the wonderful discoveries they have made that they had been through a certain grove and had seen trees bully 1 glited. This, I admit, to a certain extent. I have seen trees blighted myself, and am satisfied that in every case it was attributed to local causes. One gentleman Jiving two and a half miles from town has fourteen hundred trees. The first of this number were set eight years ago, and he never has had a particle of blight in his grove. He sells his culls here at home very rapidly at $1 per bushel, and those shipped from here last season brought better prices than any former shipments. We have also within the same radids $,000 peach trees, 1,000 apples. We will very sconneed evaporators. Smithville, Ga., January 27, 1888 A WAR RELIC.

An Old Leather Wallet That Contains Some From the Columbus, Ga., Sun.

A reporter was shown a relic of the late war yesterday. It was a musty, hand-made leather wallet, the property of Mr. Francis M. Bagley, salesman at Jefferson's. Mr. Bagley was a member of company H, Twenty-eighth Georgia battalion. When Mr. Bagley returned from the war he deposited his wallet in the bottom of his trunk, where it remained until he saw it by change vesterday, and hought it. he saw it by chance vesterday, and brought it to the store. The wallet contained some in to the store. The wallet contained some in-teresting war documents, which forcibly recall those awful, yet glorious days of strife. The papers were musty and discolored with age. One of them bore stains of blood. Two of the papers were furloughs, for sixty days each, signed by Carlisle Terry, senior sur-geon board of examiners. Dr. Terry is now a resident physician. Another was a "descrip-tive list and account of pay and clothing." Under the head of remarks was jotted down: "Has drawn one jacket, one pants, one shirt, Under the head of remarks was jotted down:

"Has drawn one jacket, one pants, one shirt, one pair of drawers, one cap, one pair of socks." Across the back of this document the following entry was written: "Paid at Columbus, Ga., November 22, 1864, four months' pay, less five days, to April 30, 1864, $42.53. A. B. Ragan, major and paymaster."

Another curiosity was a sheet of uncut five-cent visces privided on ordinary newspaper.

cent pieces, printed on ordinary newspaper. The fac-simile of one of these is given below:

No. 25,574. RALEIGH, Oct. 1st, 1861, The Ctate of North Carolina Will pay to bearer, at the Treasury, on or before Jan. 1st. 1866. : 0 Five cents, O. H. PERRY, For Pub Treas. J. Spelman, Public Printer.

Another paper was the parole, given at the close of the war. It was dated Columbus, Ga., May 18, 1865, and signed by "J. C. Lamson, captain and provost marshal, C. C. M. D. M., by order of Brevet Major General Wilson."

Mr. Bagley prizes the old wallet and its contents highly and hopes that they may remain in his family for many generations to come.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

overy of the Cause of Most Untimely Deaths that Come upon the Community.

The official returns of the City of New York show that nearly three-fourths of all deaths are from consumption. When we stop to calmly think over this fact, it is really awful. And yet every case without exception started from small beginnings. A cough in the morning; tickling in the threat; a thick phlegmy discharge; chilliness at night; difficult breathing; a tightness across the chest; these and many more symptoms indicate the presence of that terrible disease which, unless checked, means certain death with long and painful suffering.

In view of such serious and ever-present facts the suggestions and savice of the most eminent physicians are of the greatest value.

Dr. John Gardner, one of the most eminent physicians are of the greatest value. sicians in London, says: "Science, common sense, Holy Scriptures and all experience testify to the benefits derived from the use of pure whiskey." Dr. D. H. Barker says: "I have used and examined Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and find it the best I seer tried."

Dr. S. M. Buckwalter says: "Duffy's Pure Malt

Whiskey is, without doubt, the invalid's drink will stimulants are indicated, and I find all chro cases require stimulants, and a large per cent of the acute once also."

the scute ones also."

These truths, from the lips of the leading scientific men of the day, and confirmed by the experience of men and women well known in the community, should serve as a guide for all who feel the approach of consumption no matter by what path it proach of consumption no matter by what par may come. We do not hesitate to assert that man or women who will use Duffy's Pure Mal Whiskey according to directions can defy consumption and prolong life with all its blessings.

Causey vs. State. Larceny, from City Court of Macon. Criminal Law. Larceny. Verdict. (Befors Judge Harris.)

Bleckley, C. J.—When one takes property under a fair claim of right, it is not larceny; and the publicity of the taking is very powerful evidence to establish the bona fides of the claim of right. I Hale P. C. 509; 2 Russ. Cr. 163, 138; 2 Arch. Cr. Pl. & Pr. 1183; 1 Whar. Cr. L. 284; 1 Bish. Cr. Lt. 5§884, 297; 2 Id. 5§851, 832; 2 East P. C. 651.

(a) Where one went to a milk-wagon, of which he had formerly been the driver, while it was standing in a public street, took from it a bell, rang it loudly for some time, and upon the non-appearance of the driver, Jeft word with a bystander that he had taken his bell, and where it appeared that he had bought the bell pending his employment as driver, and upon his discharge had left it, and his successor had used it, a verdict finding him guilty of larceny was not sustained by the evidence, although there was testimony that the former employer of the defendant had accounted to him for the value of the bell in a settlement had between them, but which the defendant denied.

Georgia R. R. & Bkg. Co. vs. Wall. Case, from Baldwin. Railroads. Negligence. Presumptions. Verdict. (Before Judge Jenkins.);
Bleckley, C. J.—When it is shown that damage has been done to live-stock by the running of a railroad train, a presumption of negligence arises against the company; but this presumption is subject to be rebutted and overcome by evidence; and where this has been done by the uncontradicted testimony of the employes of the company, a verdict finding against it is contrary to law and evidence. The testimony of employes of a railroad company, in the absence of anything to discredit or contradict it, cannot be arbitrarily disregarded.

Poullain et al. vs. Brown, adm'r. Suit on bond, from Greene. Administrators and Executors. Principal and Surety. Parties. Auditors. Constitutional Law. Pragtice in Superior coust. (Before Judge Jenkins.) Blandford, J.—1. Where the same person was the administrator de bonis non of the estate of one decedent, and also the administrator of the estate of a deceased surety on the bond of the former administrator of such decedent, and in the first named capacity brought suit on the bond of the former administrator against the sureties other than the deceased one, a plea which alleged that the defendants were released from liability because the plaintiff, as administrator of the deceased surety, had paid out assets of that estate to the heirs at law, was demurrable. Such payments did not amount to a complete discharge, but if effective as a discharge at all, they were only so pro tanto.

(a) Where suit was brought at law on a bond

(a) Where suit was brought at law on a bond before such action was barred by the statute of limitations, an equitable bar cannot be set up to defeat it on the ground of laches in not suing at an earlier date; and a plea setting up such a defence is demurrable.

(b) On a joint and several bond, suit may be brought against one of the sureties without joining another with him.

While the legislature has power to provide for the appointment of an auditor to take testimony and report thereon, and may prescribe that parties shall not go outside of the report for other evidence than that reported by the auditor, yet, in a case at common law, where a party excepts to an auditor's report on the ground that the finding is contrary to law and the evidence, he has a constitutional right to have the questions of fact submitted to and passed on by a jury; and a legislative denial of that right is unconstitutional. In equity causes, the right of trial by jury is not constitutional but statutory, and a restriction thereon in cases of auditors' reports would be constitutional.

Stirk vs. Central R. R. & Bkg. Co., and vice versa. Case, from Bibb. Railroads. Neglingence. Nonsuit. Master and vice versa. Case, from Bibb. Railroads. Neglingence. Monsuit. Master and Servant. Evidence. Costs. Abatement. (Before Judge John T. Clarke.)

Blandford, J.—1. If the cars ordinarily used by a railroad company were such that the employes could stand upon the top of them without danger in passing under a bridge over the railroad, and if the company introduced into its train a car higher than those generally used by it, and gave no warning to its employes of the condition of such car, and an employe, who was ordered to release a bell-cord which had become entangled, went on top of the cars and was knocked from the higher car by the bridge and killed, the jury might infer that the company was negligent because of the increased hazard and danger to its employes; and on a suit by the widow of the decased could have avoided the consequences thereof by the use of ordinary diligence, were for the jury.

deceased could have avoided the consequences thereof by the use of ordinary diligence, were for the jury.

2. Where a witness testified that another person named by him had pointed out the car on which the deceased employe was standing when he was struck by the bridge, and that the witness had measured the car, this testimony was admissible to the extent of showing that the witness measured a particular car pointed out to him by the person named; but it was not admissible for the purpose of showing that such car was the one on which the employe was when killed.

3. The provision of the Code which requires a plaintiff against whom a monsult has been granted to pay the costs, is for the benefit of the officers of court, and not that of the defendant. If the defendant desires to set up failure to pay costs, he should do so by plea in abatement at the first term. There was no error in allowing the costs accrued in the former case to be paid while the latter was ponding. 20 Ga. 62,773; 68 Id. 435.

Judgment reversed on main bill of exceptions, and affirmed on cross-bill.

Boyer et al. vs. Floury. Complaint for land, from Baldwin. Trusts. Title. Ejectment. (Before Judge Jenkins.)
Blandford, J.—Where certain heirs at law brought ejectment against a person in possession of land, and on the trial it appeared that the land had formerly been owned by one Bruce, who made a deed to one Bonner to secure an indebtedness; that the ancestor of the plaintiffs negotiated with Bonner for the purchase of the land, paid an amount of money agreed on, and directed the deed to be made to the defendant, which was done, and the fee simple title was conveyed to her for her own proper use, benefit and behoof; and where it appeared that Bruce, the owner of the equity of redemption, also made a deed to the defendant, and it did not appear who paid him therefor, no resulting trust arose in favor of the plaintiffs' ancestor or in their favor against the defendant; nor could the plaintiffs have a recovery on that ground.

Judgment affirmed.

Sargent & Mansfield vs. Henderson. Complaint, from City Court of Macon. Partnership. Charge of Court. Verdict. (Before Judge Harris.)
Simmons, J.—1. Where suit was brought against a firm for the purchase price of property bought by one of its members, and the other member denied that it was a sim transaction or was within the score of their bustness, or that he or the partnesship were bound therefor, it was error to charge that it was the duty of the contesting partner to keep posted as to the acts and doings of the other partner and to govern himself accordingly. Such a charge put upon one partner the duty of watching all the acts of his copartner whether within the scope of the partnership basiness or not.

whether within the scope of the parinership business or not.

2. Where a firm was formed for the purpose of growing and selling seed, and on the letterheads of the firm they styled themselves seed-growers, and mentioned "cabbage, collard and vine seed" as the particular varieties which they proposed to raise, a purchase of large numbers of roses and carnations was not within the scope of the partnership, and one who was acquainted with the business of the firm and received orders from one of the partners in the firm name written on paper containing such a heading, was put on notice thereof.

(a) Where one of the partners in the firm name ordered large quantities of flowers, received them at the store of another firm of which he was a member, and disposed of them, gave a draft to the vendor for a portion of the purchase price, and subsequently paid it; and none of these facts were known to the other partner, or appeared on the books of the firm, such other partner was not bound on the ground that he ratified the purchase so made.

3. Within the scope of the partnership business, each partner is bound by the acts of the other, whether he received the benefit thereof or not; but a partner is not bound by the act of his copartner 'beyond the scope of the partnership.

Prine et al. vs. Mapp et al. Complaint for land, from Baldwin. Guardian and Ward. Sales. Parent and Child. (Before Judge Jenkins.)
Simmons, J.—1. Suit having been brought to recover certain land claimed under a deed to recover certain land claimed under a deed and not as a homestead, and it appearing that if it had been sued for as a homestead the action would have been barred by the act of 1876, it was conceded by counsel that the homestead proceedings were irrelevant, and the ground of the motion for a new trial based upon their exclusion was not insisted on.

2. Where a guardian applies to the ordinary for leave to sell the estate of his ward, it is not necessary to appoint a quardian ad litem

2. Where a guardian applies to the ordinary for leave to sell the estate of his ward, it is not necessary to appoint a guardian ad litem to represent such ward, and a failure so to do will not avoid a sale made under an application which has been published, and upon which leave to sell has been granted as provided by the code. Code, §§1828, 2559.

(a) Cases cited from other states, apparently conflicting with this ruling, will be lound to rest upon the statutes of those states.

3. Although it is the duty of a father to provide for the maintenance, protection and education of his children until their majority, yet if he is unable to do so from his own means, and, as guardian of such children, he has in his hands an estate belonging to his wards, it would be legal for the ordinary to grant an order allowing him to use that estate for those purposes. 25 Ga. 637; 3 Woods, 724; 16 Am. Dec. 643, 661, note.

4. Where a guardian has been regularly appointed and has given bond, the death of the only surety on such bond will not abate the letters of guardianship and render any act of the guardian thereafter illegal and void. In such case, it is the duty of the ordinary to require the guardian to make a new bond or to give additional security, and on failure of the guardian to do so, his letters will be revoked, or other proper order will be passed; but if no such proceedings are had, and the ordinary continues to recognize the appointee as guardian and receives his returns as such, and grants continues to recognize the appointee as guar-dian and receives his returns as such, and grants dian and receives his returns as such, and grants an order for the sale of property upon regular application and proceedings therefor, the title of a purchaser at the guardian's sale will not be affected by the failure of the ordinary to require additional security of the guardian. Code, §1815.

Ill After the Southern Parmers.

The farmers of the south have not only to fight against the present internal revenue, but they will be compelled, in their own interest, to protest against the extension of that system. The proposed extension of the system looks to the suppression of cotton seed oil in connection with its use as an element in refining lard.

Bills with that purpose in view, and framed in the interest of the lard speculators of the west, have been introduced in both houses of congress, and the speculators are said to have a lobbyist on hand at the capital to further their interests with such gressmen as need to be "seen." One of the pleas of the speculators is that cotton seed oil used in connection with refined lard es under the head of food adulteration : but those who know anything about the mater are aware of the fact that refined cotton seed oil is a purifier and not an adulterant. For a time large quantities were imported to Italy, where it was freely used as a substitute for olive oil, but an excessive import duty was levied by that government, this would have severely crippled the infant industry if it had not been for the development of the use of refined cotton seed oil with what is commercially known as refined

We suppose that there is no intelligent person in all this broad country who rests inder any mistake as to the nature of the so-called refined lard of commerce. When the process of crushing cotton seed was unknown, all the hogs that came into Chicago, dead from cold or other causes, were squeezed to supply the demand, and in some refineries this process is still kept up, so that consumers who buy western lard never now whether they are getting genuine hog's fat or the refuse of decayed swine.

But then came a time when refiners with some sympathy for the stomachs of their customers began to experiment with cotton seed oil as a refining element, and they have so far succeeded that the use of the oil enters largely into hog's fat as an article of commerce, and greatly to its betterment.

Fifteen years ago, the great bulk of the cotton seed produced by southern farmers was practically thrown away. Today, the south realizes from the sale and conversion of cotton seed into oil fully ten millions of dollars annually, and this large sum is increasing every year as new markets for the oll arc opened and developed.

The southern farmers not only get better prices for their seed, but the cotton seed meal, the refuse of the mills, is returned to the soil for its enrichment, and this use of It has lowered the price of commercial fertilzers. The use of cotton seed meal as a fertilizer is increasing every year, until finally. every pound made will be used in the cotton states, thus giving back to the soil all the elements of fertilization in a much better shape than the raw seed.

The bills which have been introduced into congress are wholly in the interest of the big western lard speculators, and it is the a question of time before they will be wiped laws, and then readjust the tariff so as to make it surpose of these speculators to legislate in their own interest and against the interests

A Little Tot's Big Friends.

Some of the reformers who occasionally come to the front in New York have simply succeeded in making themselves notori ous as cranks, but there are others who are undoubtedly doing a good work.

Mr. Bergh sometimes makes himself ridiculous in his efforts to protect animals from what he considers unnecessary cruelty, and Mr. Comstock has made himself the laughing stock of the country by his warfare upon undraperied works of art; but Mr. Elbridge Gerry, the president of the society for the prevention of cruelty to children, is, beyond all question, a reformer of the right stripe. Just now the sensation of the hour in New York is little Josef Hofman, the eleven-year-old musician whose remarkable performances are spoken of as something inparalleled. Hofman's parents have not been slow to realize that the youngster is a veritable gold mine to them, and they are working him to the very last limit. In New York the laws regulating the occupation of children at night are very strict, and the Hofmans had to get permission from the mayor for the boy to give public entertainments not exceeding four nights in the week. For a time everything went along very well, but at last people began to notice that Josef had a strained and nervous look. More than once he broke down and cried before he went on the stage. These facts caused an inquiry to be made by Mr. Gerry, and he learned that the young musician wes compelled to play nights in the week, besides being exhibited at private entertainments in the day-

When he became convinced that this was the true state of affairs, Mr. Gerry requested the mayor to revoke the license given the Hofmans upon the ground that the child was being overworked, and was in danger of being made a mental and physical wreck. The press of the city took the matter up. The women became interested and the business outlook for the Hofmans not very promising at present. The New Yorkers are determined that little Josef shall not be worked to death simply to fill ekets of his greedy father. Already thy gentlemen are offering to take Josef educate and support him until he has the age of manhood, so the father will not be able to plead necessity as an ex-

The case of Josef Hofman shows that seen in our great cities people are ready to ake the side of the helplets and oppressed take the side of the helplets and oppressed as soon as they understand the situation. The poor little pianist's troubles have lit to his side a host of powerful riends, and they will take care of him. Perhaps we are a selfish people, and no bet-ter than we should be, but the man who is cruel to women, children and animals is going to have a hard time. Every man's hand will be raised against him.

M. Taine's second article on Napoleon has fust been published.

This brilliant writer describes the situation in France when Napoleon came to the front, and analyzes the Roman idea and the Roman system in which the modern Cæsar found his inspiration. Although Taine is controlled by his bias against Napoleon he admits that while he subjected the French people to the rigid regulation of all their affairs beyond their narrow personal domain, he on the other hand offered them the greatest freedom within that domain, and to the restless and aspiring, he opened every rank of the military and civil grades. Still, this magnificent scheme of government was a despotism, although it had many democratic features about it. The conclusion of M. Taine is that there will never again be such a government, and that the power of the people which was unconditionally delegated to Napoleon will not be again so delegated to any-

In these speculations one thing is forgot ten or ignored. Under the operation of the emocratic principle there is growing up another great factor in the problem of government, and this factor is the majority. Under the best democratic systems, it seems impossible to convince the majority that minorities have any rights worthy of respect. In this way we are gradually drifting under the shadow of another despotism, the reverse of the Napoleonic system, but equally as bad, if not worse. The overthrow of a few Cæsars has not removed all the obstacles in the way of good government. Once the question was, how to make one man do right; now the question is, how to make the people use their power wisely and justly. Perhaps it was just as well to be under one Napoleon as it is to be under the domination of a mob of Napoleons, or such sovereigns as we find in the citizens of every democratic country. There are various kinds of despotisms, and they are all bad.

THE Macon Telegraph has probably forgotten that Congressman Norwood was elected on a protection platform.

Not So Solid. Congressman Candler, of the ninth district, has come square out for the absolute repeal of the infamous internal revenue system, and in opposition to the miserable national bank system of government under which policy property of Georgia farmers to the value of $30,000,000 is now held in mortgage. Some of our esteemed whisky ring contemporaries insist that we are putting the figures too high when we say that $30,000,000 of farming lands are now held under mortgage. While it is true that that amount is not directly in mortgage, still much is involved, for mortgages are only made on a third valuation. Congressman Candler represents not only the sentiment of his district, but of the people of the state, in taking this square stand against the war taxes with which our people are burdened, and against the financial policy which is crushing out the farmers in the interests of Wall street.

Let him lead for Georgia in the house out by an indignant people.

The Georgia delegation is not "so solid" as the whisky ring would have it.

PERHAPS our free-trade friends are slightly mistaken when they announce that the Georgia delegation in congress is opposed to the repeal of the internal revenue

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Farmers' Alliance. HOGANSVILLE, Ga., January 31, 1888.-Ed-HOGANSVILLE, Ga., January 31, 1000.—Editors Constitution: I notice in a recent issue of your most valuable paper a communication from La Grange re-hecting somewhat upon the "Farmers' alliance," placing them in a political attitude, which is untrue. Now, the first part of said article, describing the distressed appearance of LaGrange merchants on account of the concentration of the farmers' trade all to one or two trade houses may be so, and, no doubt, is correct, but so far as our aim so, and, no noute, is correct, but so in a set as the self gin any way connected with local politics of seeking its control, making slates, etc., is an in justice, and must lave been written by some on who is totally ignorant of what we do or the end desired by the alliance to attain. I have leen a start of the Reverse alliance pearly from its member of the Farmers' alliance nearly missed attending a meeting of the Hogansville alliance; have attended every meeting of the county alliance but one since organizing, and never yet have I heard politics mentioned in any way, shape, form or fashion. Your correspondent is, no doubt, an apprant and of profession that deprives him of the opportuni becoming a member of the Alliance, and fear ing such political concentration as we have accomplished in trade is alarmed, and desires to spit so hing at us incredible. In our declaration iples we piedge ourselves to work out our salvation m one line only—that of agriculture—studying its racticability and making the farmaers moters of their own procession, building up agriculture that degree it is entitled to, which is alongside the most honorable of human callings. And don't tautalize us with other motives, more especially to take up arms against such a class as that of profes-sional politicians, which is of no kin at all to agri-culture. We are going to vote for such men as will all office with honor, and not a local and chronic office-seekers that are first to prophesy, distrust and hollow like Sam Jones's dog, that you might know was hit, because he hollowed. We have had much to endure from the outside world—and in our infancy, too—by being tantalized with this and that character, with all sorts of pretended sport, discour agement and threats, but we are gaining strength every day, which must prove to our enemies that we are fast coming to the point where they must admit of our ability to accomplish the object We are making no political fight, and more, we have no fight for any man or profession, but simply intend to take better care of our interest than here-tofore, and be masters of all we survey. With our motto "good will to all," and if by so doing merchants squeal and politicians bark, certainly the Alliance should not be blamed. Every other profession has its organizations, and pray what for? Cer-tainly for protection. You, Mr. Editor, are trying to organize the democratic party for tariff protection, and you are right, and every Alliance man is with you, too-which is only one other link to the long chain that is necessary to sustain us as farmers. We antagonize no class, mean to injure no one, but simply to take care of ourselves. Should half our merchants have to close their doors, let them put their money in manufacturing in our midst, which would enhance our interest, and accomplish still re for the farmer than he can for himself. Don't go to farming. We have too many now; but want a more convenient and profitable market for our

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: The people of this EDITORS CONSTITUTION: The people of this country are all greatly interested in the present discussion in reference to the reduction of the surplus revenue in the treasuary of the United States. But it seems to me that the opponents of the repeal of the infamous excise, or internal revenue system do not present a fair issue. They present the question in this way. "Which do you prefer, the repeal of the internal revenue laws, or a reduction of the tariff on the necessaries of these and in means course recovery of these and in means course recovery." ssaries of life?" and in many cases men will an wer, the reduction of the tariff on the necessaries of

Now that is not the issue at all. The issue is. shall we first repeal the infamous internal revenue laws and then re-adjust the tariff so as to increase the tax on luxuries used by the rich, and reduce the tax on the necessaries of life used mostly by the poor. That is the true issue, and there is no diffi culty about doing both if congress desires to do so.

The surplus in the treasury for the current fiscal year ending June 30th, 1888, is estimated by the secretary of the treasury at 113 millions of dollars that we want to get rid of. The whole internal revenue system only yields 118 millions of dollars, and over four millions of that is paid for collecting it, so that the one just about balances the other. Now there is no reason why we should not repeal the internal revenue no difficulty about raising plenty of money by tariff to support the government economically adminis-tered after the internal revenue laws have been repealed. It is no answer to the proposition to repea the internal revenue laws to ask whether a mar the internal revenue laws to ask whether a man would prefer that or a reduction on the necessaries of life. There is no difficulty about doing both if the people say so and congress is willing to do it. Shall we get rid of the odious excise, and shall we readjust the tariff so as to relieve the poor from much of the present burden of taxation on the necessaries of life? Probably but few reasonable men would frankly and since they oppose the carrying out of both measures, and there is no necessary.

saries of life? Protedly out few reasonable men would frankly and sinceedy oppose, the carrying out of both measures, and there is no necessary conflict between them. The democratic platform provides for both, and both ought to be done.

If we fail to do so, and adopt the internal revenue system as part of our permanent system of raising revenue to support the government, then there will be an effort in every congress to add to the direct tax or the internal revenue. Now it is whisky and tobacco, next they will put an internal tax upon iron or salt. And first upon one thing, and then upon another, until they finally reach a point reached in England, taxing each dwelling house, or each window in each house, and have spies and informers paid out of the treasury of the United States, constantly going over the country annoying our people with what Mr. Jefferson calls "domiciliary vexation." Let us be rid of the whole system as soon as possible. Let us abolish the infamous excise, and readjust the tariff so as to increase the tariff on luxuries used by the rich, and reduce the tax on necessarios used mostly by the poor. Who says no?

wonderful ability and energy in railroad organization, E. C. Machen is well known in the state. His connection with the Macon and Covington railroad is well known, and he has the confidence of all those with whom he has dealt in the construction of that road. Out of a turmoil of trouble he has about succeeded in settling all the differences which have involved that road in the courts for the past two years. and he now sees his way clear to its early completion. Every debt will be dred cents on the dollar, and he is confident that before the end of the present year Athens will be connected with Macon! by a direct line A few days ago, during a trip over that road, I talked with Mr. Machen as to what he proposed doing when he got the Macon and Coving on in such a position that it could "I don't know," he replied, "but I am ever idle. After I finish the Macon and Covington, there are other roads to connect with it, the building of which will take some time yet. Of course I will give this my time,

"If you were going to build another railroad in the state which of those contemplated lines do you think the most important?'

"After the Macon and Covington," he replied, "I unhesitatingly say that the best line which could be built in the state, would be the line from Atlanta to Selma. It would go though one of the best sections of the south and would open a competing line to New Orleans and the southwest. If would do more for Atlanta, and indeed for the state, than any other road which could be buit out of Atlanta Of course, I mean after the route proposed for the Atlanta Mississippi and Atlantic, however, in my opinion, will be a part of the Macon and Covington system."

"Will the Atlanta and Selma road be built?" "I can't say," Mr. Machen replied, "for I don't know what its present management is doing. I will say one thing, however, that I will agree to build the railroad from Atlanta to Selma, and will contract to have it completed in eighteen months time, if the fran chise and the subscriptions which have been without asking a dollar from anybody, and without even asking for the subscriptions which have been made until the road has been

Do you mean that?" ," was the emphatic answer, "and you can make the announcement to the people of Atlanta, that if they want the road and are willing to comply with the above terms, of course giving right of way into the city, I will at once sign a contract to build the road, and will ask for nothing but their encouragement until it done. I am satisfied that I can place the bonds for such a road without the slightest trouble; indeed, I will say that I know I can. It's a big undertaking, I know, but as I am now at work on the biggest railroad contract ever taken by a single man in this country, I am ready to still further extend my scope and

From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, For the real and solid satisfaction of reading an American book about American subjects, which could not have been written by any one but an American, we have to thank Mr. Richard Malcolm Johnston. In his volume called "Mr. Absalom Billingslea and other Georgia Folk" (Harpers), we have the American short story at its very best. These tales with their queer titles, "Historic Doubts of Riley Hood," "The Wimpy Adoptions," "The Suicidal Tendencies of Mr. Ephrodius Twilley," "The Hotel Experience of Mr. Pinz Fluker," "Rev. They do represent such a life with wonderful skill and art, but they make it a mere embodiment of implied views of human nature, which are wholesome as they are worthy, and as inspiriting as they are amusing. A great art has been exercised in the creation of new surroundings and incidents, which have yet the effect of perfect freshness, without effort or attempt to secure a factitious variety. They are quite devokt of provincialism, because they represent types that appeal to universal feelings, and they have reached a higher level in freedom from mannerisms and tricks of speech that mar the artistic finish of most such cre-ations. Mr. Johnston is still writing these stories for the magazines, and we hope he will soon have enough ready for another vo WALKS AND TALKS.

There is a very ambitious local dramat scheme on foot which promises to prove of peculiar interest to the theater-goers of Atlanta. Booth and Barrett have come and gone, but they have not been forgotten. Two of Atlanta's local players are a forgotten. Two of Atlanta's local players are arranging to follow in the footsteps of the illustrious tragedians in a most striking and novel manner. Mr. Scott Tornton, Atlanta's young tragedian, and Mr. George W. O'Brien, a strong amateur actor of this city, proose to make an effort to repeat the triumph of th Booth-Barrett company. These two well known young men are now forming a local troupe, to be known as the Thornton-O'Brien combination. They intend to present at DeGive's Opera house in the coming spring the same plays which were given by Booth and Barrett.

The plays of Othello, Hamlet and Julies Casar will be presented in the identical order in which Booth and Barrett rendered them. There will be two night performances and one main e In Othello, Scott Thornton will play the "wronged Moor" and George O'Brien will appear as Iago. At the matinee Scott Thornton will be Hamlet and George O'Brien, Laertes and at night Scott Thornon will appear as Cassius and George O'Br essay the roll of Brutus. The lady who plays Oph Desdemona and Portia, it is come out of the west. nal of beauty and talent. The rest of the support will be composed of the best lo that can be gathered together, and, as is well known Atlanta abounds in good amateurs. The plays will be presented with every attention to detail under

The scheme is an ambitious one, but not udacious. It will be remembered that several years ago the sublime traged y of Julius Casar, the heaviest of the three plays, was played by Atlanta alent in a highly interesting way to a packed house. Since then Atlanta has received an influx of to der and better talent, and there is more of it. Messrs. Phornton and O'Brien are not servile imitators. They will avoid everything like a purile aping of the tragedians. Both are actors of thoroughly original ethods and will give these great plays in the own way with new business, etc. There will be othing stereotyped or traditional in the personation of these grea: characters, tut it will be stamped with pronounced individuality of conception and most conscientious execution. All the great actors of the world have had different conceptions of Othello, Tago, Hamlet, Cassius and Bra-tus, and the fact that Messrs. Thornton and O'Brien may play them differently from Messrs. Booth and Barrett will not subject them to unjust criticism nor render them less worthy of patronage. It is an axiom in theater art that every actor has a perfect ight to his own conception and execution of a character. Both young gentlemen are thoroughlen earnest and the great undertaking upon which they are bent promises to be the greatest sensation in a tragic way that Atlanta has ever enjoyed.

The commissioner of education, in a report on the present educational condition, makes the following reference to Georgia: "The census of 1880 makes the alarming exhibit that there are in Georgia 128,000 white persons over ten years of age and 392,000 colored persons of the same class, making a total of 520,000, one-third of the entire population, who cannot write their names. Words cannot give as much emphasis to the necessity of an efficient state system of common schools as is given by these facts. In view of them, it is pertinent to ask what has the state done to meet this necessity? Public schools have been in operation fifteen years. The increase in attendance has gone regularly forward, and fro year to year small additions have been made to the fund. In 1885 seventy-one per cent of the white school population and forty-nine of the colored, sixty-one per cent of the entire population, white and colored, were enrolled in the public schools.

"The state makes no provision for normal schools or teachers' institutes, but the trustees of the Peabody fund have expended liberally of their available fund in Goorgia for both objects, The opinion of those in attendance on the Peabody Teachers' institute was almost unanimously favorable." A statement prepared in the department of justice shows the following to have been the expenditures of the United States courts in Georgia during the past year: Northern district—marshals, $26,619.52; ju-

ALCOHOLISM.

An Interesting Letter From a Son to f Father. The following is a portion of a letter written by a well known young man to his father, from an inebriate Sanitarium. That the writer is a man of much ability is shown by his admirable letter, which presents his case as a study, and in which the subject of uncontrollable inchriety is discussed in an interesting manner.

I have been applying myself whenever I could to shorthand, and think I have made very good prog-ress so far. I cannot study long at a time, but rath-er intermittently.

My escenal health is as good as it ever was, have gained twenty punds in flesh, and more in experience since since! I came here.

After a careful study of my own case, assisted by the observation and comparison of others. I have found and entertained more decided views upon the subject of alcoholism. In the fl st place I don't believe any man starts out with the wilful desire to make a drunkard of himself, he is lead on, or leads himself on, step by step, from sobriety, just as a growing child departs from the early teachings of religion. A man does not jump, but wades into vin. The descent is gradual. Danger is not realized until he is beyond his depth; then comesthe struggle; then is the time when he needs the help of his latest manhood and the assistance of others. The feeling of the same securities of the struggle; then is the time when he needs the help of his latest manhood and the assistance of others. The feeling of the same securities of the same as the altar cr good and in the oresence of this fellow-man, should meet with only cold looks from them, and a tirade of reproof from the agent of God, would our ministers of the gospel be as successful as they are in their administration of divine mercy and forgiveness. I doubt it.

ABOUT THE HOLY LAND.

A Distinguished Traveler Gives an Ac-count of His Wanderings.

There was a select audience in the Masonic hall last night to hear the Rev. H. R. Coleman's lectures about his travels in the holy land. It was a literary treat, and all who heard it were de-

From the opening to the close of the lecture he held the closest attention of his hearers. He spoke considerably more than hour. He had in his possession several relics and trophies which he got in Palestine, and Ithese he showed and explained.

In the audience were a score or more of ladies, who were very much luterested in the lecture.

THE "BOWL" FIGHT.

The Struggle Retween Students at University of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Pa., January 31.—The "bowl" fight at university of Pennsylvania came off today, notwithstanding it had been prohibited by the faculty. It proved to be very exciting and its results may prove serious. The "fight" bas heretofore been between freshmen and sophomores. But today while the convention was in progress the cries, cheers and shouls of contestants could be heard for blocks. The spectators soon began to crowd in and fully five hundred persons were looking on. The faculty also heard the noise and many of them hurried to the ground, showing evident disheard for blocks. The spectators soon began to crowd in and fully five hundred persons were looking on. The faculty also heard the noise and many of them hurried to the ground, showing evident displeasure at the fighting, and that the boys had been too sharp for them and had eluded all their vigilance. Their threats and orders fell like drops of water on hot iron, and when a body of students moved towards a demonstrative "professor" with cries of "Put him in the bowl!" they withdrew, en masse, and watched the battle from a safer distance. After the fight had been in progress for some time, a large party of medical students made their appearance, and the fight took an unexpected and unprecedented turn. The "meds" were fresh, and outled the safety of the control of the battle. They finally secured possession of the "bowl." and ended it safety in the center of medical hall. The fight between the "sophs" and "freshmen" was declared a draw. But another cotest will no doubt grow out of the battle. Members of the faculty cannot avoid taking the matter up, and in view of the disregard of possitive prohibition, their action will, it is expectedly large today, particularly here. A large majority were at the expense of the interior town stocks. It is taking that much out of the visible and invisible stocks mentioned above, and yet the loss, as compared with last year, is about 4,000 bales. It appears to us as though the rapid exhaustion of these interior supplies is taking place. In the meantime, heavy receipts are being used by the bears for all they are worth, and we see almost daily a steadily declining market, as every decline brings out sales by disappointed bulls, or stop orders on exhausted margins, the first staking place.

SOCIAL GOSSIP. A Dickens Party-Several Other Entertain

Merer has a more interesting and attractive entertainment been given in Attanta than that which took place has night at the residence of Mr. Frank Ryan, on Washington street. It was a unique performance; nothing just like it has been given in Atlanta. The spacious parlors were ablaze with light, and there were about one hundred persons present when the entertainment began. The crowd increased until all the space in the rooms and passages was occupied. The German band was stationed in the conservatory, and discoursed music between the acts of the play. It was a Dickens party. It was arranged by Mrs. Albert Force, and most of those who took part in it were members of the Fortnightly club of the Central Presbyterian church. It proved a notable success in all respects. The young ladies and gentlemen who personated the variouse characters in the cast were dressed with taste and judgment, they having studied carefully the matter of costunes. The first number on the programme was an original essay on Charles Dickens, of Miss Laurette Boykin. This was a remarkably fine production, thoughtful, chaste and forcible, and it was read Leautifully. The gifted young lady was generously applanded, and was the recipient of many fine compliments.

Captain Harry Jackson read passages from the works of Dickens and introduced the various characters. He is an exceptionally good reader, and he discharged his duties admirably.

There was some delay in starting the entertainment, and it was eleven o'clock before it came to an end. It proved so successful that the members of the Fortnightly club will probably repeat it next week.

minstrels, slept in Falton county jail last night.

Berry, it will be remembered, was arrested Monday on a charge of cheating and swindling. The minstrel company of which he is a proprietor occupied Concordia hall Saturday night, after parading the streets that evening in an omnibus, with a brass band. When the livery stable man presented his bill the treasurer could not pay it, and the baggage was attached. Then the proprietor of the Union house presented his bill, but Berry postponed the payment. Later the proprietor had reason to believe that Berry intended leaving the city, and he was arrested. His preliminary trial came off yesterday morning before Judge Manning. In default of $100 bond Berry went to jail. A few minutes after he had left the courtroom, a communication from Marietta was laid before Judge Manning, saking for information as to Berry's whereabouts, and stating that his hotel bill in Marietta is still unpaid.

INSURANCE MONEY.

The Court Hears a Case of Interest to In-

The case of the London and Liverpool Globe Insurance company against M. C. and J. F. Kiser, has been in the courts a long time. The case came into court in this way: A fire occurred in Barnesville, and some property, which was insured, was destroyed. In some way the Mesers Kiser held an interest in the property to the amount of $2.091. This money has been in dispute a long time. While the suit was pending in court the money was in the keeping of the clerk of the superior court of Fulton county. county.

The title of the crse changed. It was before Judge Marshall J. Clarke yesterday under the title of M. C. and J. F. Kiser vs. J. F. M. English and J. H. Hunt. After hearing the argument, the court required defendants to either pay back the money or give a

JUMBO TO THE FRONT AGAIN.

He Makes Cases Against Three Persons for Throwing Seapsends on the Street.

Jumbo Hunter walked into the city prison yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by a negro man and two negro women. Each of the 'negroes was carrying a washtab, while Jumbo had three washboards under his arm. "Here, Mr. Wright," said Jumbo, addressing Stationhouse-Keeper Wright, "please enter cases against these three people."

"What's the charge, Jumbo?" asked Mr. Wright, opening the police docket.

"Violating section 482 of the city code," answered Jumbo.

"And what's that?" asked Mr. Wright.
"Throwing seapsuds on the street," said Jumbo, changing from his right foot to his left; "and these people can leave their tubs and boards for their appearance in police court in the morning."

again very dull today, though an interruption of business for over half an hour to present the chair-man with a gift had something to do with it, but prices were heavy throughout the day and are gen-erally lower this evening. News of the day was of erally lower this evening. News of the day was of a mixed character but the general impression was that the Reading'strike looked more threatening and this factor overpowered all good news; so traders worked all day for a decline with some success. Anthractic stocks attracted the most attention, though St. Paul, Western Union, Union Pacific were prominent. Goodbuying, showever, was principally in (Western Union, Texas Pacific and Reading. Large short Interest was augmented somewhat today, though there was considerable selling on part of disappointed bulls, who have grown thread of waiting for the market. Few specialties were very strong, for the market. Few specialties were very strong, especially Wheeling and Lake Erie, which after especially Wheeling and Lake Erie, which after opening at 50% rapidly rose to 52% finally reacting to 52% at close. The market was very quiet at opening with declines from last evening figures of 160% per cent. There was no change in character of dealings and further fractional losses were sustained, the only exception being Wheeling and Lake Erie, which was unusually strong. After 11 o'clock the market came to a standstill for presentation, but when business was resumed decline still continued and received no check till toward delivery hour, when a slight rescript took place. Decline was rewhen a slight reaction took place, Declino was re-newed before close, however, which was dull, heavy, at or near lowest prices of the day. Every-thing is lower, except two stocks above mentioned, though losses are confined to fractions only, the most important being declines of 7% in Kansas and Texes, and Union Pacific. Total sales 133,000 shares. Exchange dull but steady at 485@487. Money easy at 25@3, closing offered at 25%. Subtreasury balances: Coin Si2, 866,000; currency, $10,987,000. Gov.

NEW YORK, January S1—C. L. Green & Co. in their report on cotton tutures today, say: All day long the market has been slack, and a majority of operators manifested an inclination to sell. Advices from abroad afforded little comfort, while port receipts were inclining toward fuller figures, and New Orieuus was offering here with some freedom. The pressure, however, did not prove of a desided character, as a considerable portion of the supply found some one to take it at a moderate shading, and a latent dread of being caught in some unexpected manner by the manipulation of the leading bull operators evidently prevented many from moving entirely with their own convictions. There was a shrinkage of 5@6 points; closing slow at about the lowest figure.

NEW YORK, January $1—[Special.]—From Hubbard, Price & Go., through John S. Ernest: The quotation of barely steady rather leans to the views of the bears, as the market showed more steadiness at the close than the tone officially reported. Liverpool has been a heavy seller during the day, and the main purchases have been made by the representative of a large Philadelphia house, who, with the usual buying buying by the bulk here, took all the cotton sellers offered. The decline has been stubbornly resisted, and was due in a measure to the large receipts at this port, which are evidently beeing drawn from the interior towns. Thequiet buying goes on irrespective of the loss in prices, and the room, changing its views with customary facility, now is in doubt as to the ability of the holders to market their interest. Cables report Liverpool quiet with little doing in anticipation of large receipts, and a bearish feeling with the bears depressing the market. The probability of many notices being issued for early delivery, and the possible effect of a depression in prices following with widened differences. The home trade, however, is reported improving, and Manchester accounts are avorable. The opening with us was at a decline of two points, the selling depressing prices a few points further during the day. The business was comparatively mail, and leaves operators tonight doubtful as to the near future.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

Special to The Constitution. CHICAGO, January 31.—The markets were unusually dull and almost featureless today. Wheat traveled over nearly the same path as on Monday. The opening was comparatively steady and on lib-eral selling of two or three local houses prices deeral selling of two or three focal noises prices de-clined 4/24c. No one appeared to have nerve to buy except a few stragglers who were still covering, or those who bought for a temporary rally of 3/46/2c. May wheat opened 3/2c lower at 81/24c, sold to 813/26

81½c, held steady during a greater part of the session and closed with a slight rally at 81½c.

Corn was quiet and steady during a greater part of the day, with trading chiefly between local operators. May opened at 52½652½c, declined to 32½6652½c, remained steady until just before the close, where a little guidi carried it to 50%6. when a little spirit carried it to 523/4c. Oats sold within 1/4c range for May with the other intures entirely neglected. May closed at the outing the surrounding circumstances, the feeling was fairly firm and prices well supported. Receipts of harry firm and prices were supported. Receipts of hogs at the yards were unusually heavy—45,000 head—fully 80 per cent larger than estimated, ac-companied with a further reduction in prices, and this had a depressing effect at the opening of the market for products. Speculators were disposed to market for products. Specializes were disposed to enlarge their offerings, especially for May delivery, while the demand was not particularly urgent. Early sales were made at reduced figures, but the shorts were anxious to provide for their outstanding contracts, and longs were inclined to enlarge their contracts, and pags were inclined to enlarge their holdings, consequently a reaction set in and the decline was recovered. During the latter part of the sossion the market was quiet, but prices were moderately well supported. May opened 12½ c low-er at $14.20, sold to $14.17½ during the opening flurry, firmed up on liberal purchasing to $14.32%, reacted to $14.27% and closed at $14.32% $14.35. Lard held steady at 7.63% $67.70 for May, closing at 7.67%.

HENRY L. WILSON,

28 PEACHTREEST. Now is a most opportune time to invest NOW IS A MOST OPPORTUNE TIME TO INVEST money in Atlanta. No southern city has so steadily prospered, and increased in population at dwealth, in the last twenty years as Atlanta. Her business property pays a handsome interest, while residence lots are exceedingly cheap for such a great growing place. The rich men of this country are mostly land owners. Scores of men in Atlanta carry heavy bank accounts from handling real estate. 'Tis the safest of all investments—so say the Astors. I can furnish buyers business property, residence lots, close in or remote, improved if you desire; or I will sell large tracts suitable for subdivision. Atlanta is just in her infancy. Wealthy and powerful syndicates are now preparing beautiful grounds, to be reached with cars drawn by dummy engines. Survey and plats are being made. Soon, I can plesse the most fasticious with building lots. I have islephonic communication with everybedy; good fires, and spleudid company. Serious charges are pending against the pair.
Late yesterday afternoon the county courtheouse and police headquarters were joined by telephone, and an excited call for an officer came over the wire. "Arrest those two men."

The men were soon under arrest and a few minutes later were looking through the bars. Then the story came out. It appears that both men had been drinking and, going into the basement of the court house, assaulted Mr. Johnson, the engineer, the object apparently being robbery. The matter was reported to Mr. Forbes, who secured the arrest of the two men. When the officers returned to the court house to obtain Mr. Johnson's statement, he had gone. The men were then booked for drunk and disorderly conduct, and in police court this morning the story will come out in its details.

INQUIRIES ARE BEING MADE.

Chas. Griffith, the man whose arrest was caused night before last by Couch's pocket companion, is still in the citylprison. Letters have been written to Alabama, Tennessee, Indiana, Texas and West Virginia, making inquiries about the prisoner. Griffith claims that his home is in West Virginia.

SHE WAS DISCHARGED.

Mag Wilson, the woman whose house was raided by police early Monday morning, because of the shooting affray which occurred there, was arraigned in police court yesterday morning. The evidence against the woman was damaging but not sufflicient to secure a conviction and she was discharged. Inddey and Hanford the two young men who were engaged in the difficulty which caused the raid, were arraigned also. Dudley was fined $15 and cost and Handford was discharged.

Another stolen cow has been traced to Bankston and Watts. Since the arrest of the two men Detective Carol has been working to trace some of the stolen cows. On vesterday he succeeded in finding the cow which was stolen from Mr. Humphreys, or rather he found what was left of the cow—the skin which covered her and a piece of the meat. The remains were found in Wilson's meat market, on Haynes street. Mr. Wilson says that he purchased the cow from Bankston for ten dollars.

HE LET THE HORSE RUN AWAY,
Tom Moore will be arraigned in police court this morning, to answer to the charge of disorderly driving. Moore is a colored man and a hack driver. Yesterday afternoon he had three children in his back, driving along Loyd street. Being dissatisfied at the gait of his steed, Moore plied the whip to the animal in a vigorous manner, which so aroused the spirit of the quadruped that he quickened his pace into a run, getting beyond the driver's control. Moore dropped the lines and jumped from the hack. The horse ran to Decatur, thence to Pryor, thence to Wall, and up Wall to Loyd, where he was stopped. The children were unhurt, Officer Starnes arrested Moore and booked the above charge against him.

Mrs. Campbell put the pound of butter in the tin pan, and handing the boy the sixty-five cents in change, watched him disappear around the corner. John Maddox Charged With Whipping His Wife.

THE LADY LEAVES HER HOME And is Followed By Her Husband - He Buys a Shotgun - He Denies the Entire Story, Etc.

John Maddox's red face and sandy hair showed through the heavy iron door of cell No. 5 in the city prison last night, looking all the brighter because of the flaming gas jet hanging in front of the cell door.

Maddox is a well known railroad man. Two warrants issued by Judge Manning and now filed away in the station house keeper's desk are the authority by which Maddox is held a prisoner, one warrant charging him with beating his wife, while the other is commonly called a peace warrant. Maddox works for the Western and Atlantic railroad and has been living at 444 Marietta street. Night be-fore last he drank too freely and going home picked a quarrel with Mrs. Maddox. The lady entered into the quarrel with considerable spirit and Maddox finally became so enraged that he pounced upon her and gave her a terrible beating. Mrs.

finally became so enraged that he pounced upon her and gave her a terrible beating. Mrs. Maddox had become accustomed to her husband's quarrels, but the thrashing was a novelty, and she instantly decided to leave her home. In a short time she managed to leave the house with her three children and made her way to a friend's house on Marietta street, near Foundry, where she passed the night. As soon as Maddox ascertained that his wife and children were gone he began to search for them. All through the night he continued the search, but without success. Soon after breakfast, however, he ascertained where she had zone, but when he reached the place Mrs. Maddox and the children had taken their departure. The husband was determined to find his family, and in a short time traced them to John Lovelace's residence, No. 34 Fowler street. Mrs. Maddox and Mrs. Lovelace were quite friendly, and when the latter, though sick in bed, heard of the former's trouble, quickly gave her a warm welcome. Mrs. Maddox was just beginning to feel casy when her husband made his appearance at the front gate. He walked rapidly through the yard towards the house, and as he approached the door remarked:

"Oh, yes, d—n you, I've found you, have I?"

The lady knew that her husband was in high temper and sprang through a door into another room, closing and locking the door be-with it he fell into the room. In an instant he crouched in a corner. Maddox finally threw his weight, against the door. It gave way and with it he fell into the room. In an instant he detected his wife in the corner and dragging her out gave her a fear ful beating. While the racket was going on some one hurried away for Mr. Lovelace, who hurried to police headquarters. Sergeant White, who was present, started for the place, but when he arrived Maddox had gone. The sergeant found the lady, however. She was bruised and marked up badly. The officer soon secured a trail, and following it found Maddox at his home, armed with a double-barrel shotgun. The man did not resist, but accompanied the officer to the city prison quietly. As Sergeant White rode away Mr. Lovelace told an interesting story.

"Why," said he, "that man has been on a drunk and he has nearly killed his wife. She is a thorough lady, too, and there is no nicer man than Maddox when he is sober—but when he's drunk he's awful. He imagines all kinds of things about Mrs. Maddox when he is drunk, and this morning bought a double barrel shotgun, swearing that he was going to kill Charley Gant."

When Sergeant White arrived with Maddox he appeared to be sober. The prisoner was searched and locked up, while his new shotgun was laid away. On the books he was charged with disorderly conduct and quarreling. Immediately after he was placed behind the bars, Maddox was asked about the trouble between himself and his wife.

"Yes, we did have a little quarrel," he said.
"About what?"

"She had been doing the drinking."
"She had been doing to kill with the gun?"
"It is said that you marked her up badly."
"When were you going to kill with the gun?"
"The said that you marked her up badly."
"When were you going to kill with the gun?"
"The only slapped her."
"It is now that you marked her up badly."
"And why did you whip your wife this morning?"
"To only slapped her. After we quarreled last night and she went away I

"And why did you whip your wife this morning?"

"I only slapped her. After we quarreled last night and she went away I thought she had gone to my brother's, but she hadn't."

"Where had sne gone?"

"Why, she took my children and went up over that drug store down on Marietta street near Foundry. Now, I don't think that a fit place for my children and it made me mad."

An hour or two after Maddox was locked up he secured a bondsman and was released. Soon after his release Mrs. Maddox wentplefore Judge Manning and swore out the two warrants and Maddox was arrested and locked up again.

AT THE THEATER.

Rhea Yesterday—George Wilson Tonight— Emma Abbott Coming.

M'lle Rhea played "Frou Frou" to an extraordinarily large andlence at the matine yesterday, and was enthusiastically received, especially by the many ladies present. Rhea was charming in the title role—it is one of her best—and her comin the title role—it is one of her best—and her com-pany appeared to good advantage.

In the evening the audience was only fair in point of size. "Fairy Fingers" was the attraction, Rhea assuming the character of Hortense, a milliner. assuming the character of Hortense, a milliner.

In both plays the support was good. Miss Fitzallen is an excellent actress, and was greatly admired. Mr. Amory and Mr. Wren furnished the fun, and plenty of it. Mr. Owen was very good in both plays, and Mr. Bell appeared to much better educations than he did as Purnish.

sent their new budget of fun, songs, music and dance. Minstrels mean a few hours' happiness to the overworked, overworked, overexcited American, and this explains why they are so popular. At the head of these happiness-creators has stood for many years the incomparable and inimitable George Wilson, and his name as a star of a company is worth all the other attractions put to ether. George Wilson will be there tonight. The Dallas, Texas, News said the other day of the appearance of the troupe in that city:

Decidedly the best ministrel performance ever witnessed in Dallas was that given by Wilson & Rankin's excellent troupe at the opera house last night. As is always the case when George Wilson visits this city, the theatre was packed from pit to dome. The curtain rose on an entirely new first p.rt, and very novel it appeared. The costuming was gorgeous and better than anything else, the olio the speciality acts were for the most part so fresh that they appeared to have been gotten up for the occasion. The songs, which constitute a leading feature of every minstrel performance, were new, and all of them delightful and received with uproarious applause and encored. The danning was immense. George Wilson, the one, the solitary, the unapproachable, was never in better shape, nor fuller of laughter-provoking mirth and never answered more recalls. Luke Schoolcraft, than whom there lives not a more subtle or cunning interpreter of the negro character, covered himself all over with glory and paralyzed the audience.

The Emma Abbott Opera Season. Tomorrow night the Emma Abbott grand Tomorrow night the Emma Abbott grand opera company will be heard for the first time here in the grand "Il Trovatore," with Emma Abbott as "Leonora." Determined to make this difficult role one of her best efforts, and second to none ever given in this country, Miss Abbott gave especial attention and study to the character, and her brilliant success has been heralded far and wide. She attention and study to the character, and her brilliant success has been heralded far and wide. She will have the support of Miss Annandale and her entire company, and the production will be a most brilliant and enjoyable one. "Ruy Blas, or The Queen and the Lackey" is said to be one of the most beautiful and sensuous operas ever written, and as presented by the Abbott company has been remark-bly successful. The plot of the opera is virtually the same as Victor Hugo's drama of "Ruy Blas," in which Sarah Bernhardt made one of her great Parisian successes. The music is brilliant, and Emma Abbott's court dresses are pronounced the handsomest ever seen upon any stage.

The following outline of "Ruy Blas" may be of interest: Don Sullust, who is the virtual ruler of Spain, during the period of the play, has just been ordered into exile through the initience of the queen. He swears revenge and as he stands pondering over the means; to gain his point Ruy Blas, his private secretary, attired in the hivery of a servant, enters the room. Ruy Blas is already in love with the queen. He has been daily bringing to the queen an offering of her favorite flowers, and she does not yet know to whom she is indebted for this daily remembrance. As Ruy Blas stands gazing fondly on the portrait of the queen, it occurs to Don Sallust to make him the tool of his revenge. He orders him to clothe himself like a Spanish grandee, introduces him at court as his younger brother and bids him make love to the queen. The queen, neglected by the king, is leading a lonely and unhappy life in the great palace, and is esily led into the trap set for her. Ruy Blas induced by threats to play a part, the full import of which he does not understand until the plot is developed, the queen exposed and himself quanasked. Vainly imploring the pardon of the queen, who is incensed by deception, he poisons himself and dies at her feet.

There were some inaccuracies in the report of the sermon delivered last Sunday by Dr. Erwin, at the Huuter street church. The doctor's statement was that as soon as the Children of Israel had made the passage of the Red Sea, and so had been baptised into Moges in the cloud and in the sea, they enjoyed a salvation from the bondage of Egypt, but that it was not until after a journey of forty years, through the wilderness, from this time, that such of the nation as were counted worthy were, by God's grace, permitted to cross over the Jerdan into the Promised Land.

Yesterday evening the Chinese students at-tracted a large crowd in Concordia. Several undred children were present and they keen-yenjoyed the entertainment. Last night the attendance was not large, but

"COLD STORAGE."

An Important Meeting of Public-Spirited Citizens.

CALLED BY HON. H. I. KIMBALL An Investigating Committee Appointed Atlanta Will Probably Have An Am

moniacal Refrigerating Company. In response to the invitation extended through THE CONSTITUTION yesterday morning by Mr. H. I. Kimball, in his interview having reference to ammoniacal refrigeration a number of the solid and public-spirited citizens of Atlanta assembled at THE CONSTITU-TION office yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

There were present Messrs, George W. Adalr, S. M. Isman, Hugh Inman, Hoke Smith, George M. Traylor, L. Bepjamin, C. W. Hunnicutt, Rufus B. Bulleck, S. H. Phelan, J. C. Kimball, J. S. Simmons, J. A. Morris, J. R. Lewis, E. W. Marsh, B. H. Hill, Jr., J. W. Rucker, Martin F. Amorous, E. P. Howell, Henry W. Grady, W. A. Hemphill, Robert Hemphill and others.

Mr. J. C. Kiser was kept away by sickness, and Mr. J. W. English would have been present had he not been called out of the city resent had he not been called out of the city by businesse.

Colonel E. P. Howell called the meeting to order and nominated Colonel George W. Adair as chairman. Mr. Martin Amorous was requested to act as secretary.

The chairman announced that he gentlemen had assembled to hear something of interest to Atlanta from Mr. H. I. Kimball, a gentleman to whom Atlanta always listened with profound attention, and as that gentleman was present he requested him to address the meeting.

In response to the call, Mr. Kimball gave a brief outline of the recent discoveries in the process and development of

ARTIFICIAL REFRIGERATION,

ARTIFICIAL REFRIGERATION, and its adaptability to all kinds of refrigeration and cold storage. He dwelt at some length on the importance of the latter to the fruit, vegetable, dairy and other interests of the south. Mr. Kimball then referred briefly to the plans he had on foot for the introduction of the system in the south under his contract with the home company in New York, which had been set forth to some extent in his interview in The Constitution. These plans involved the organization of a construction company, with a capital of $100,000, to which he could offer Atlanta only $40,000—but that a subscription to that amount would secure the headquarters of this company to Atlanta. He further stated that no subscription to such a company would become binding until the whole scheme had been thoroughly investigated and approved by a committee appointed by such subscription. whole scheme had been thoroughly investiga-ted and approved by a committee appointed by such subscribers. He said that he would not detain the gentlemen present by further remarks, but would be pleased to answer any questions which any gentleman might wish to questions which any gentleman might wish to propound.

Mr. E. G. Delano, a distinguished electrician from New York, who happened to be present, said that he was well acquainted with Mr. Suller, the president of the home company of New York, and with Mr. Soulard and others connected with its management, and that no gentlemen stood higher for honor, integrity and business capacity; that they were men who would never invest their capital or connect their names with any enterprise that was not worthy of full confidence.

Mr. Henry W. Grady arose and said that he was about to leave Atlanta for a 'three weeks' trip, but before going he wished to say that he had already become considerably acquainted with this enterprise through the northern press, or noticed that it was receiving its hearty indorsement; that while he had not much money to invest, he would gladly take stock in the company proposed, especially if it was to result in bringing Mr. H. I. Kimball back to Atlanta; that the securing of Mr. Kimball's residence once more in Atlanta was in itself equivalent to the success of the enterprise.

Mr. S. M. Inman said that he was to accom-in itself equivalent to the success of the enterprise.

Mr. S. M. Inman said that he was to accompany Mr. Grady on his trip and must leave in a few minutes, but before going he wished to say that while he was not now in position to invest largely in such an enterprise, he was always ready to take some stock in any enterprise that had the indorsement of Mr. H. I. Kimball and was to be under his management. Governor Bullock followed in a few remarks complimentary to Mr. Kimball, and suggested as Mr. Kimuall was limited in time, it would be well to take some step to secure a subscripbe well to take some step to secure a subscrip-tion sufficient to warrant the sending of the committee of investigation to New

It was started by Mr. Kimball that a subscription of $20,000 would be sufficient upon which to select the investigating committee. which to select the investigating committee, and Governor Bullock added to his motion and Governor Bullock added to his motion that the committee of five have power to select such investigating committee when $20,000 had been subscribed.

This motion was seconded by Mr. Hoke Smith, and unanimously adopted.

The chairman appointed as such committee—Governor Bullock, Mr. Hoke Smith, Colonel E. P. Howell, Mr. H. T. Inman, and Mr. S. H. Phelan.

Governor Bullock stated that it would be impossible for him to give any time to the material states.

impossible for him to give any time to the mat-ter at present, and asked to be excused. He was relieved and Mr. Martin Amorous was mpointed in his place.

Mr. Hoke Smith was then made chairman of the committee.

the committee.

After short and spirited speeches by Messrs.
George M. Traylor, S. H. Phelan, Hoke Smith and others, the meeting—which had been of the most enthusiastic character throughtout—adjourned, subject to the call of the committee. Many of the gentlemen lingered, and discussion and speculation as to the great results anticipated were indulged in for some time.

discussion and speculation as to the great results anticipated were indulged in for some time.

One gentleman remarked that he had nover known any scheme that was so well calculated to draw out the incomparable power of H. I. Kimball as an organizer as this one promised to be, and quoted Mr. S. M. Inman's remarks on this line. Mr. Inman had said of Mr. Kimball: "For fertility of resources, scope and energy of action and power of organization I have never known his equal."

While passing out of the hall a man stopped one of the gentlemen and asked: "What is cold storage?" Mr. J. A. Morris answered him by saying "It is a room or series of rooms cooled by ice or other means of refrigeration to a temperature that will preserve in perfect order for an indefinite time. fruits, vegetables, meats, butter, eggs and other perishabte articles," and in proof of this, told the story of the Maine bear which was sent by a bear hunter of Maine to the Maine club of Boston, and put away in a cold storage room. The Maine club have already partaken of that bear at four successive annaul dinners, and the remnant left is as sweet and perfect as it was on the day it was put in the room. This is "cold storage."

Mr. Sid Phelan asked if he could not have a carboy of the refrigerating article sent out to his dairy tomorrow. "Not quite," replied Mr. Kimball, "but as soon as the plant is erected in Atlanta, which I expect will be done within sixty days, you can get one as often as needed, and I guarantee that, as long as you use it you will never lose a teaspoonful of milk or cream, or an ounce of butter."

"It's only a question of time," and a time, time, too, as to when your rhoumatism will. yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try it.

Two Noted Comedians—A Youthful Journalist—A Papa's Planets.

"There are no two men in the theatrical profession who can do more to drive dull care away than Nate Salsbury and George Wilson, yet none have lived more romantic lives."

The speaker was a well known traveling man who is autherity on matters theatrical.

"Salsbury," he continued, "has been everything under the shiming sun, and he is one of those jacks-of-all-trades who excel in almost everything. Nate is a writer and poet of some note, was as gallant a solder as ever stopped a bullet with his body—and he has stopped several—was the chief of one of the leading tribes of Indians in his younger days, has been merchant, business man, comedism. Why, the details of his life sound just like the most improbable fairy tale.
He is a veritable genius, and that he is a genius with common sense is shown by his starting Buffalo Bill into the show business. You know he is Cody's pariner, and is the brains of the concern."

"And what about George Wilson?"
"Wilson has seen every nook and corner of the globe. His early life was spent in travel and adventure. When he was 17 years old he went to China to join his father who was there, and at 19 joined the expedition against Foo Choo. At the head of this expedition was that most remarkable general, Chinese Gordon. Wilson was one of Gordon's lieutenants, and at one time was, it is said, the means of saving Gordon's life. The incidents of that expedition thrillingly interesting, and 'Emperor' George had many hair-breadth escapes, bdt he got out alive, and drifted back to 'Frisco, went into the minstrel business, and has since been making people happy. My authority for this? Why, Billy Arnold wrote it up in the Nashville American, and of course it's true."

It is paintn! to be compelled to destroy the 'And what about George Wilson's Nashville American, and of course it's true."

It is painful to be compelled to destroy the pretty illusions which hover, as it were, about the heads of well known men, but the duty of a public journal is plain. Take Willis Hawkins, for instance. Hawkins is one of the bright men of Chicago journalism, and during a recent visit to Georgia made hosts of friends. He is gay and chipper, the happy possessor of a 'love' of a mustache and a crop of beautiful curly hair which carries with it an air of youthful innocence. But the allusion must be dispelled. This youth, and especially this innocence, is 'for revenue only.' The facts are against him. Hawkins is a native of the 'dark and bloody ground, now owned by Brother Watterson and his whisky ring and the date of his birth goes back into the misty past. The famous actress, Marie Prescott, is a Hawkins, her grandfather being Joseph Hawkins, who played such—an impertant part in the early settlement of Texas. Marie is not an infant, yet she proudly tells of her babyhood when "Uricle Willis" was wont to trot her on his knees and hum sweet lallabys in her baby cars. when "Uncle Willis" was wont to trot her on his knees and hum sweet lallabys in her baby ears. Hawkins' friends have noticed the friendship existing between him and Miss Prescott, but have never dreamed of the true cause of i. Uncle Willis may have been a younger brother of Miss Prescott's mother, Mrs. M. J. Victor, but the family history states that the developer was the youngest of the that the daughter was the youngest of the family. The circumstances are all against the "young" journalist in his claims of youth, but it must be acknowledged that his make-up is excellent.

Did you see Jerry Jones yesterday? He was one animated smile—nothing more, nothing less. Happy? Well, rather. And it's all on account of a stranger who has come to his home, and wh>—although he will not discuss the matter—evinces a disposition to stay. Some people might think this "gail" on the part of a stranger, but Jerry admires it and says he shall be a newspaper reporter. He weighs twelve pounds.

"May blue ruin and yellow damnation fall upon the entire host of 'intelligent' compositors and stupid proof-readers!"

Such must have been the tenor of the thoughts of the happy father who saw the pride of his life—his first-born—thus ruthlessly accredited to some unknown creature of a pride of his life—his first-born—thus ruthlessly accredited to some unknown creature of a typo's imagination. "Jerry Jones," indeed;

Who of all the residents of this glorious city would recognize in "Jerry Jones" our own and only Terry Towns? Yet "Jerry" is Terry, and Terry is the happiest man enjoying the freedom of the Gate City today. The smile, the animated smile, the baby—all are his and he is happy. Congratulations always in order.

BETTS SET FREE.

The Preliminary Trial Results in His Re-William Betts, the barber, had his trial yes-

Betts, it will be remembered, was carried to jail Sunday night on a charge of wife beating, and Lizzie Wright, Mary Wright and Virginia Wright were arrested at the same time for assault and battery. It was alleged that all four head tales were the same time and the same time for assault and battery.

sault and battery. It was alleged that all four had taken part in an assault on Betts's rather notorious wife, Frankie, and at the time they were arrested Judge Manning was informed that Frankie Betts was not expected to live through the night, and Dr. Roy was quoted as expressing his opinion to that effect.

Under these circumstances the four darkies were refused bond, and were compelled to pass the night in jail. Lizzie Wright, the mother of the two girls, is an old woman and in feeble health. All four are well-known in Atlanta, and their arrest on such a serious charge was a surprise to many people, white as well as colored.

Yesterday afternoon Judge Manning's court-coom was crowded, it being known that the rial would take place there. The hall, and the room adjoining the courtroom, were also crowded, while on the stairs and sidewalk

Judge Manning, after hearing the evidence, decided that it was insufficient to warrant Betts being held for trial. The cases against the women were withdrawn.

As the crowd in the courtroom passed into the hall, they congregated near the door, and some strong language was used between the two factions. Suddenly two of the women clinched, and it seemed for a while as if a small battle was imminent. A colored woman with a guitar was particularly bloodthirsty, but the crowd was too thick for her musical weapon to be very effective. The two women were separated, and the crowd adjourned to the sidewalk. The quarreling was kept up for some time, but the battle was over.

Betta's new wife was in the courtroom, and very much interested in the trial, and quite demonstrative in her satisfaction at the result.

Jim Baker and Sam Arthur Got Thei Money.

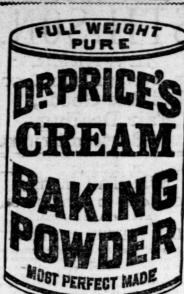

The Times recently mentioned the fact that Jim Baker and Sam McArthur had drawn $15,000 in The Louisians State Lottery. Last Thursday the money was received through the Missoula National bank, and turned over to the lucky holders of the ticket. Three or four other minor prizes were secured by Missoula parties at the last drawing. Another tenth of the capital prize of $150,000 was drawn by William Poad, of the town of Anaconda, in the adjoining county of Deer Lodge, and was collected through the Omaha National bank of Omaha, Nebraska.—Missoula, Mont., Times, Dec. 7.
